

Speech Announcement

 揭開去南極的神秘面紗—前篇

Unveil the Mystery of Going onto the Ice—Part I

Antarctica has been a mystery to most people for hundreds of years. Up until 200 years ago, no one knew what the southernmost part of the earth looks like. The harsh environment there makes the continent hard to reach and human lives are always on the line trying to survive there, even to this day. In this talk, I will take you onto a journey with me, show you hopefully have you feel what Antarctica is like and how it is like to live there.

Speaker : Cissi Lin 林映岑

DECEMBER 25, 2020

14:00–15:00 S4–811

Center for Astronautical Physics & Engineering

